At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of this city last Saturday the same officers were re-elected to their respective positions and the capital raised from $25,000 to $50,000. The change makes no difference in the capital as it was merely a transfer from the surplus to the capital stock making it an even amount of the two, placing the institution more fully in harmony with the new federal reserve bank act, according to the statement of Cashier Gault.
